

WORK

- ◆ Know what you want...work for it...and life will return its richest rewards.
- ◆ No time is lost, nor is time better spent than in honest and productive work.
- ◆ You never do anything worth doing by accident. A pre-determined plan of work makes every effort worthwhile.
- ◆ The ability to work hard at your job...no matter what that job may be...produces greater peace and satisfaction than indolence ever finds.
- ◆ Rewarding work is never finished as long as the desire to work remains.
- ◆ Match the work you do with enthusiasm, self-confidence and a desire to excel. Your job will cease to be monotonous, and work won't be work anymore.
- ◆ The very act of working, whether work be physical or mental, is a process of expression that has no human equal. Those who like to work inevitably achieve success because they are expressing themselves.
- ◆ No matter how little or how much a job pays us in money if we do not also derive from that work the satisfaction of doing something important, we have made a bad bargain.
- ◆ It is through their work that most people write the story of their lives. They are both author and principal character. They are free to be the hero or the villain...to succeed or to fail.
- ◆ The common denominator for success is work. Without work, one loses the vision, the confidence, and the determination to achieve.

“If a man don't work, he ought not eat.”
